

Company Overview

Our clients have the organizational, managerial and tactical tools to effectively integrate technology into their business and products. They have moved beyond the “hype cycle” of technology, and use it as a tool to operate more effectively and generate higher profits.

BENEFITS YOU CAN EXPECT

- ▶ Your IT organization and management structure deliver the right level of service and value for the right cost
- ▶ Marketing and operations effectively deploy modern and relevant technologies that communicate your message and sell your products.
- ▶ IT is accountable for business results, and tracks its performance in terms of return on investment, risk versus reward, and return horizon
- ▶ IT leadership explores process and organizational changes to meet business challenges rather than immediately suggesting more “boxes and wires”
- ▶ You fully understand the options, benefits and risks to embarking on large enterprise projects, from the conception and vendor selection phase, through to implementation
- ▶ Struggling organizational projects have a mitigation plan and benchmarks for success in place, or are cancelled before wasting additional money and time
- ▶ There is no longer an “us versus them” mentality between business units and IT

“Patrick is a true leader with a keen eye toward detail and providing the customer with expert guidance and superior customer service. A team player, Patrick excels at understanding the problem and applying the right solution. He is a welcome addition to any project or organization.”
